Germans Claim Million Men Of Allied Forces Are Caught In Belgian Area

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

BERLIN, May 22.—The German mechanized drive toward the bustling channel ports from which England's fate may be decided widened today as new gains were recorded in the southward drive toward Paris, according to the Nazi high command.

German military quarters denied French claims that Arras has been re-taken.

With regard to the Nazi southward drive, there was no definite word on Soissons, which is only 55 miles from Pasis.

But military experts considered its capture by Nazi troops as "most likely."

Today's communique disclosed that the onslaught against the channel was embracing a wide area north of Abbeville, seized by the Germans yesterday.

Million Trapped

A German ring of death-dealing steel tightened on more than 1,000,000 allied troops trapped in a corner of northern France and Belgium while the Nazi air force rained bombs on retreating British forces reportedly seeking passage back to England.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

WPA workers engaged in paving Temple avenue are of the opinion that it might have been just as well to clear off the dirt from a stone base and let it go at that. They have discovered that the street is underlaid almost entirely with a deposit of sandstone and in order to get down for the gutters they have had to chisel through pure stone.

The city of Peronne, France, figures in the news prominently these days. Just 22 years ago Register and Recorder Orville Potter was in Peronne but by the time he got there it wasn't much of a city, just a pile of debris and rubble that had once been houses and buildings.

Mayor Mayne's warning about auto horn tooting by celebrators who parade the streets is well directed. The performance on Sunday when horn tooting was kept up for probably ten minutes in the downtown section was uncalled for, and a real disturbance to services in the downtown churches.

Gen. Weygand Plans Allied Counter-Moves In France-Belgium

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 22.—General Maxime Weygand (here eight words censored), having personally inspected every square mile of the battlefield in both northern France and Belgium, is ready to put into effect some of that wizardry which won him victory at Warsaw against the Bolshevists in the Polish-Russian war of 1919.

The late Viscount D'Abernon called that the "fourteenth decisive battle of the world."

Compared to the present battle now raging in northern France and Belgium, the conflict between the Poles and Russians looks in perspective almost trivial, because as the

Boston Plant Is Transferred To New Castle

Additional Department Is Being Installed At National Radiator Plant

WILL MAKE GURNEY HEATER REPAIR PARTS

Announcement was made today by E. L. Brundage, superintendent of the National Radiator Company, of the transfer of the equipment, patterns and repair parts of the Gurney Heater Manufacturing Company in Boston, Mass., to the New Castle plant. In the future all repair parts for Gurney boilers will be manufactured and distributed by the New Castle plant of the National Radiator Company.

In 1927 when the merger of various radiator and boiler companies was made the Gurney Heater Manufacturing Company of Boston was included and became a part of the National. Recently the Boston plant was sold and arrangements made to manufacture repair parts here.

Mr. Brundage has returned from Boston where he arranged for the transfer of the equipment, parts and patterns. Six car loads have already arrived and eight more car loads are due. The equipment is being set up and production of repair parts will start in the immediate future.

The new line of work will mean a few more employes for the local plant of the National Radiator Company and will also mean a large production tonnage in a year's time.

Two Thousand Dollars Given Red Cross Fund

First Report Meeting Shows Splendid Contributions For War Sufferers

SECOND REPORT TO COME FRIDAY

Members of the various teams engaged in a campaign to raise funds for the Red Cross War Relief fund are doing a splendid job, the first report meeting which occurred on Tuesday afternoon revealed, workers reporting to General Chairman Ross D. Rosenberger that $2,063.10 had been contributed in the first two days of the campaign. This should be doubled by the time for the next report meeting which will take place Friday afternoon in the Chapter house.

The bulk of these contributions came from workers in the various industries of the city, the Shenango Pottery company employes giving $826.35, the industry reporting almost 100 per cent contributions. Other industrial plants which had reported Tuesday, showed contributions of $438, bringing the industrial total over the thousand dollar mark.

Reports from the various outlying districts revealed that the campaign in these districts is coming along nicely, and the team workers engaged in the campaign are enthusiastic over the prospects of attain-

Two Youths Are Killed In Crash

Accident Occurs Near Slippery Rock About Midnight, Tuesday

CAR OVERTURNS NORTH OF TOWN

(Special To The News)

SLIPPERY ROCK, May 22.—Two Harrisville youths were killed and three more miraculously escaped injury about midnight Tuesday when the car in which they were riding went off the road one mile north of Slippery Rock, hit a concrete headwall and turned turtle.

The dead:

Leonard Brown, 17, Harrisville, died in the Grove City hospital early today.

Tony Angelo, 14, Harrisville, killed instantly.

The other three boys in the car were Merrid Surrena, 14, Gerald McGill, 15, and Jake Sadin, 16, all of Harrisville. They were hurled from the car and landed in an open field which was muddy and soft.

Brown Driving

The car was the property of Leonard Brown and was being driven by him. The crowd had gone to a motion picture theater in Slippery Rock and had started home sometime near midnight. About one mile north of Slippery Rock they made a right turn, apparently at high speed and the car shot off the road. It first hit a concrete headwall and then turned turtle.

Angelo was riding in the front seat with Brown and was caught under the car apparently dying instantly. Brown was badly injured and died in the Grove City hospital this morning. Because the car was an open top car the three boys in the back seat were catapulted clear and landed in a field.

Manufacturers Of State Plan Program To Get South American Trade

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Pennsylvania's 12,000 manufacturers today were planning a long-range production program designed to capture a fair share of the rich South American trade abandoned by warring European countries.

Because of its varied production, said Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown, Pennsylvania is in a more "favorable" condition than any other state to win a large portion of the increased market.

Already exports to Latin America have been reflected in the 82 per cent increase in exports since the first of the year from the Port of Philadelphia—through which most of the state's foreign trade moves.

Exports Increase

Following the outbreak of European hostilities in September, 1939, exports from Philadelphia showed a "marked increase" despite the loss of such markets as Czechoslovakia, Poland and Germany.

Brown pointed out, however, that Great Britain and France may attempt to hold their Latin American trade in order to maintain foreign credit and to buy sorely needed war products. Only recently, he said,

Hitler Planning For Battle Of The Century

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WITH THE GERMAN ARMIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT, May 22.—Chancellor Hitler planned today to hasten the decision of the war on the continent with a "battle of the century."

The Fuehrer, it was learned, already has given General Walter Von Reichenau and his other commanders orders to make every preparation to challenge the Allies to a decisive struggle at the first opportunity.

I am able to reveal this on the basis of permissable information available here.

The Germans are hoping to engineer the "waterloo" of the French army and thereby force France to abdicate as a mighty continental power once and for all.

Paralysis of France as England's partner by means of a mighty blow is envisioned.

Foresee Major Battle

Behind the front I noticed during the past 24 hours that all responsible German authorities, from Hitler down, are focusing all their hopes on a major battle.

New German army corps are pouring through Belgium by every open road, and it is claimed by German authorities that the Allies scarcely have tested as yet the real striking power of the German army.

General Reichenau, who has been entrusted by Hitler with carrying out the sweep toward the channel ports, is calm and self-assured over the outcome.

Recapture Of Key-Point Is Spur To France

Arras Again Held By French Troops Paris Hears With Relief

GERMANS KEEPING UP COAST DRIVE

French Bomb German Towns In Retaliation For Bombing French Towns

By KENNETH DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 22.—A surge of relief, tempered with caution and the realization that many hard tasks lie ahead, swept over Paris today with announcement that French troops have recaptured Arras, one of the key points seized by the Germans yesterday in their drive toward the English channel.

A short while later, Premier Paul Reynaud went on the air with the reassurance that if the allies can hold out for a month, they will have traversed three-quarters of the road to victory.

And, he added, the French will hold on as long as necessary.

Reynaud's statement as well as the brief communique itself made clear that the reoccupation of Arras was but one small phase of the gigantic attempts now being made by the allies to counteract the initial Nazi advantage.

The communique said:

"Arras is now in our hands."

Germans Continue Drive

The communique indicated, however, that the Germans were still keeping up their drive toward the coast and channel ports.

In addition, it revealed that the French bombarded three towns be-

Congress Speeds Defense Program

By ROBERT A. McGILL

A floor tussle over the $132,000,000 item in the bill for the president's personal disposal provided the last obstacle to Senate passage.

Crucial Hours For Cause Of Allies

Counter-Attack Is Hope Of Allies

Flanks Of Advancing Germans May Be Attacked From Both Sides

GERMAN ADVANCE NOT CONSOLIDATED

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 22.—A repetition of the 1914 "miracle of the Marne"—when France's taxicab army smashed Von Kluck's hammerhead swinging against Paris—is needed today to halt the onrush of Germany's mechanized forces.

These are crucial hours for the allied cause.

The German forces have thrust through a huge wedge extending beyond Amiens to the French coast and the British Expeditionary Force is now separated from the French.

Now is the time for a smashing counter-attack on the flanks of the advancing German wedge.

May Turn Situation

A French drive to the north, timed simultaneously with a British push from consolidated lines in the north may be a factor in turning the critical situation into a favorable one for the allies.

Unless this miracle happens, the B. E. F. will be exposed to the crushing force of "mopping up" Germans in the north. Inevitably it must either re-establish connections with the French to the south with smashing counter-attacks, fight the advancing Germans with its back to the sea or clear out of the wide arc it now occupies on the seacoast from north of Dieppe in France to Ostend in Belgium.

What this decision will be the world must await, but the direction of the German drive, it is now clear, is heading for control of all the channel ports for a direct attack against Britian.

Hope To Annihilate B. E. F.

The Germans hope simultaneously to annihiliate the "pocketed" B. E. F. if they can deliver a blow against the British, the Germans hope, France will give up.

German mechanized units and infantry yesterday entered Abbeville and by now are certain to have reached the coast, for modern mechanized warfare, supported by superiority in the air, moves with the speed of light.

Against the advancing wedge the British are putting up a courageous defense, counter-attacking repeatedly.

It must be explained that an extremely confused situation exists in the huge salient, where mixed forces without defined lines are fighting against German position not yet consolidated.

Situation Confusing

The confusing situation can best be explained as follows:

The Germans are using their airplane superiority as long-range artillery, with bombers dropping tons of explosives on the French lines.

I have seen and talked with French soldiers who have experienced this terrific aerial bombardment, leaving them with dazed eyes, staring faces and drawn, halting speech.

The fact that I was blown through a door during a terrific five-hour bombardment by concussion of 500-pound bombs bursting half a mile away enables me to know in some small degree what they have been through.

Once the line was covered by air bombardment, German mechanized forces, supported by infantrymen hurling hand grenades and shouting, "Der Fuehrer Komm t," broke through the French defenses.

At the same time the German air force methodically bombed behind the lines, causing thousands of refugees to stream along the roads and thereby jamming allied war transport.

It must be said that the British retired in perfect order. Perhaps one of the best military withdrawals in history was necessitated in order to preserve the army intact.

MANUFACTURERS OF STATE PLAN PROGRAM

England sent thousands of tons of anthracite coal to Canada to Bolster commercial credit.

"Increased South American trade," emphasized Brown, "will depend on whether the foreign countries are going to ship—at any cost—goods for purposes of credit.

Defense Program Benefit

"However," he added, "it looks as if we will be required to satisfy the South American market with products ordinarily supplied by Europe."

The commerce department expects that the biggest export gains in the state, based on national figures, will be made in metals, automobiles, railway supplies and rolling stock, machinery, chemicals, coal, textiles, farm machinery, timber, foodstuffs, paper and paper bases, paints and dyes.

From a national standpoint, Brown asserted, Pennsylvania will probably benefit greatest from the rearmament program because the state is the largest producer of iron and steel, needed for war ordinance.

Brown said that if President Roosevelt's national defense program is adopted by congress, it will mean increased activity in all related industries and that the state's relief rolls would continue to shrink.

hind the German front in retaliation for an asserted German bombardment on three towns behind the French front in Lorraine.

A military spokesman refused to reveal names of the three Lorraine towns.

"Enemy pressure continued in the direction of the coast, taking the form of raids carried out by small, motorized detachments," the French communique stated.

Full of Confidence

In his brief talk, Reynaud did everything in his power to reinforce the French morale.

"The commander-in-chief said to me: 'I am full of confidence, if everyone does his duty with fierce energy.'"

"The civilian population must not let itself be terrified by raids by German motorized troops, which are like the cavalry raids of other days and whose boldness will cost them dearly.

"The population must stay at home and work."

Guarded optimism was the keynote in military circles this afternoon as swift reorganization of the French army and its position went forward swiftly.

Beyond news of the recapture of Arras, there was little outwardly evident to cause the sudden lifting of spirits, and correspondents would not be allowed to tell just what is happening if they knew.

See New French Moves

But it seems a safe assumption to say that sweeping new French moves will be seen before long.

Although the fighting goes forward endlessly along the entire front, there is a lull in the cataclysmic violence at present as the Germans catch their breath and rush up thousands of tons of supplies over harassed communication lines and endeavor to consolidate their positions.

The Nazi offensive may be resumed before the end of the day.

Capture of Giraud Unverified

There is still no official confirmation or denial of German claims that General Henry Giraud, commander of the French ninth army, has been captured.

However, I learned something this morning of the recent activities of this brilliant warrior which illustrates the daring of this type of French general and throws illumination upon his great reputation among officers and troops of the entire army.

Giraud has been careening about the front in a tank, witnessing with his own eyes in conditions of greatest danger his army's progress and activities.

Giraud's escape when captured in the last war is one of the deathless legends of the army. He traveled 400 miles through Germany after his escape from a prison camp, posing as a bus conductor and disguising his identity in many other ways to reach Belgium and finally France.

of commons without division. Members of the house, impatient over any delay, criticized long-winded speeches being made concerning it.

The house of lords met and adjourned to await receipt of the bill from commons. The lord chancellor announced that it will be passed through all stages and receive the royal assent by tonight.

Announcement of this move, taken "not in a spirit of panic" but because of the "grave peril" threatening the country, was made in the house of commons by Major Richard Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal.

"It is necessary that the government should be given complete control over all persons and property," he said.

"The whole resources of the country must be thrown into the struggle."

The emergency measures are not due to panic, Attlee declared, but are dictated by the "grave peril" in which England stands.

raged over the English Channel all night and during the early hours of this morning as Royal Air Force patrols maintained ceaseless watch for a possible mass German sky attack on Great Britain.

The activity increased at dawn and at times the sky was reported full of planes.

Military quarters in London expressed belief that Arras may have been recaptured from the north in the direction of Lille. Authorities, however, professed to be without definite information on this point.

They expressed hope that as a result of the latest French success the British and French armies, cut off yesterday by the German drive to the coast, may again establish contact.

pectations, did not come to a pitched battle on the Dyle River in Belgium," he said.

"But I believe that appointment of General Maxime Weygand as Allied commander-in-chief is sure to bring us the hardest fight yet.

"We took the breath of the Allies away by upsetting all their conventional military plans; by initiating our 'blitz' tactics in their territory and giving the foe no opportunity to concentrate his forces and compel us to adopt the deadly trench warfare of 1917.

"This war therefore is a modernized version of the old-style wars above ground."

DRIVE CONTINUES TOWARD CHANNEL NAZIS REPORT

planes assertedly criss-crossed the battlefields to attack moving columns of Belgians, French and British from the shattered Belgian city of Ghent to the Somme river, in France.

Nazi quarters said "heavy casualties" were inflicted by mass bombings on an estimated 300,000 British troops allegedly "attempting to embark and return to England."

Aimed at Boulogne

Some of these terrific bombardments were carried out almost within sight of British shores. The French channel ports of Boulogne, Calais and Dunkerque and the Belgian ports of Zeebrugge and Ostend met the brunt of the air attacks. Germans believed it was almost a matter of days before all of these vital "jumping-off" places for attacks on England will fall to the Nazi armed might.

The spearhead now seems to be aimed at Boulogne, directly across the channel from Folkestone, England, and possibly from there to Calais—where Dover lies but 25 miles away.

ing and even exceeding the goal assigned them in the ten million dollar national drive.

Tremendous Need

Word received by the Chapter from the National Red Cross shows that a tremendous need for immediate funds exists as wounded and hungry civilians stream out of the war area, their entire possessions in their hands. With all available man-power engaged in the titanic struggle on French and Belgian soil, it is only the humanitarian nations not engaged, who can render assistance at this time, and the American people are responding generously to the appeal.

Workers engaged in the effort to raise the local fund will redouble their efforts during the next two days to try and bring the local campaign to a conclusion as quickly as possible.

Dr. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in commenting on the effort being made by the Red Cross, had the following to say today:

"From the pulpits of all the churches in Lawrence county, appeals were made last Sunday for the Red Cross War Relief Fund. Many of these churches will receive a special offering at the services next Sunday.

"In the face of destruction, death, and starvation, we feel there is so little that we can do. The service of the Red Cross in this hour of distress gives us the opportunity to do what we can. Let us give willingly; let us give generously, remembering the words of the Master, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' I am sure the Christian people of New Castle and Lawrence county will do their part in this magnificent effort, designed to relieve the suffering of the miserable."

Speaker Features "Guest Night" Party For B. P. W. At Field Club

"Good fellowship" and the "Let's get together" spirit fairly hummed in the hearts of nearly 100 women gathered Tuesday evening in the New Castle Field club, when the local Business and Professional Woman's club played hosts at their annual "Guest Night" dinner party. Highlighting the occasion was a stirring address given by their speaker, Mrs. Isabel Claridge Taylor of Wheeling, W. Va., national and international treasurer of the B. P. W. organization.

At the stroke of 7 o'clock, the assemblage, the majority in formal gowns, were seated at colorfully appointed tables in the dining room, the spring motif predominating. Amidst this setting, the group partook of a deliciously prepared menu.

Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune, general chairman, led in the reading of the "Club Collect", followed by the invocation given by Miss Alice Sterling. The chairman later introduced Miss Genevieve Riddle, president of the local club, who extended greetings and the welcome of the evening.

Pep singing with Mrs. George Henderson directing, and Mrs. Richard K. Allen, accompanist, was a feature from time to time. The latter accompanied Mrs. James A. Rugh, guest soloist, who delighted with her vocal selections. She included in her program "The House On Top of the Hill" by Charles, "Cawn Bread" by Wolfe and for her encore she sang "Don't Talk To Me Of Spring". Later she sang "The Cat Bird" and led in the triumphant closing number by the assemblage, "God Bless America" with Mrs. Allen at the piano. They, with Jean Glenn of The News, were special guests.

The balance of the evening was given over to the speaker, Mrs. Taylor, a most gracious person and the possessor of a pleasing and dynamic personality, who was introduced at this time. She held the close attention of her audience with her humanly keen approach in which she gave her topic "Our Frontiers". She stressed the theme "Business Women As a Democracy" throughout, and her message was heartfelt and inspiring from beginning to end.

Mrs. Taylor began with the founding of the Business and Professional Women's club, relating how it was inspired and traced its growth. She named women prominent in the public eye today who hold important positions, and stressed "through club organization" new fields of opportunity have opened. She told of the qualifications necessary to get to the top, such as the ability to work, good training, determination, and emphasized the need of guiding the younger club women in their footsteps. Mrs. Taylor touched on echoes of the heartaches, strife, hunger and problems being encountered by war stricken countries, which doesn't make us feel too happy or secure. Group meetings and conventions give stimulation and form public opinion. She closed with the thought, "Try to grow wisdom and strive as you never have before, to be effective, a good citizen, willing and able to make the best possible decisions to further encourage thinking and honorable government. "Let us hope for the end of war and build again for PEACE—eternally."

In addition to guests attending from the immediate vicinity, others present from out town included Mrs. Mary Wilson Morgan of Atlanta, Ga.; the speaker and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert J. Taylor and Mrs. Gladys W. Baker, the latter president of the B. P. W. club of Wheeling, W. Va., and the following visiting clubs: Beaver Falls, President Ellen M. Hall, Gladys McKee, Mildred Dunn, Bess Demorest and Fern Medley; Sharon, President Mabel McCracken, Mary Wood, Adel Sarver, Anna E. Qualk and Myrtle L Allen; Butler, Mary Margaret Turner, president, and also the president of District Two, accompanied by Caroline Covert, Jane May, Margaret Lewis, Mary Lewis, Dorothy Rankin, Ann Brier, Dolores Gallagher, Mrs. Earl Mack, Martha Geibel, Mary Vilimy, Mary McCarren and Mary Louise Kennedy.

Committees aiding the chairman, Sara Sankey McCune, with last evening's party, co-operated splendidly in making it an event long to be remembered as one of the most enjoyable as well as outstanding undertakings on their season's social calendar.

HIT COALITION GOVERNMENT PROPOSAL

PROPOSAL being aired in some circles at the present time, which urging a coalition government program for the United States is meeting with a lot of solid opposition.

Two New York papers yesterday reflected the sentiment of many of the nation's leaders in the following:

The New York World-Telegram declared:

"President Roosevelt's effort to form a 'coalition government' is as clever a political maneuver as any he ever initiated.

"If, as is reported to be his design, he prevails upon Col. Frank Knox and three or four other influential Republicans to take cabinet posts at this time—in the teeth of the national conventions and elections—it will be a neat job of interning Republican opposition without benefit of clergy, or even a wake. * * *

"We have had too much one-party government, and too much unrestrained dominance by one faction within that party. Instead of absorbing all opposition into the New Deal, the country's crying need is just the opposite—a minority strong enough and intelligent enough to keep the majority always on its mettle. In short—a return to bi-partisan government."

The New York Post, which has been regarded as an administration supporter, had this to say:

"Every so often considerable publicity is given to the notion that this country would benefit if we could do away, at least for the time being, with party conflict in favor of a coalition government. The idea, on the face of it, may seem attractive, but we hope the day never comes when it is put into effect. * * *

"Other suggestions such as the one that the Republican party nominate only a candidate for vice-president, ought to be held up to the light and identified. They are tentative proposals for the creation of a one-party system. We want none of them."

COLLEGES AND POLITICS

Experienced reporters have been impressed by the skill with which college students have managed recent mock political conventions. One newspaper remarked:

"Those responsible for the major party conventions might learn a thing or two by watching a student conclave. The youngsters set a snappier pace, eschew long-winded oratory and, to a degree almost startling to seasoned convention-watchers, seem to know what they want.

"Perhaps the current crop of student politicians will give the nation, a few years hence, real streamlined political conventions. It is a boon greatly to be desired."

It is also greatly to be desired that these students, after graduation, continue to take a keen interest in politics and government. Also that many of them follow public service as a career and share in government more directly and fully than most of their elders have done.

FILLING THE SKIES

There is apparently very little that can not be done industrially in the United States with machines. Until recently it has been doubted whether airplane production could be brought about by mass methods. It now seems likely that the same production practices which the automobile industry found so valuable will be applied.

Wing ribs have been quite a drawback. They vary in width according to position in the wing, each one being progressively smaller or larger than the one next to it. This has been regarded as an insurmountable obstacle to mass production. However, a machine has now been perfected capable of turning out tapering-sized ribs in large volume. It will be placed in operation soon. Other machine operations are being performed in metals and materials of all sorts.

It is now freely predicted that eventually small airplanes will be produced on a scale almost as large as automobiles if the market justifies it. The larger aircraft will continue to be more or less assembled jobs and their output slower. But mass production can fill the skies with planes.

HAWAII SEEKS STATEHOOD

The territory of Hawaii has wanted statehood and talked statehood for years, and has now begun an intensified drive for it. Citizens in the islands will vote on the question November 5, using ballots printed in English and Hawaiian, with the single question: "Do you favor statehood for Hawaii?"

That vote will not settle the matter. Authority rests with the congress of the United States, which must pass an enabling act before Hawaii can adopt a state constitution and place her star on the flag. The voluntary plebiscite will serve merely to strengthen the Hawaiian demand for action.

Statehood advocates say there is no strong opposition group in the islands, although a commission studying the situation as recently as 1937 found many individual expressions against it. It is urged, further, that Hawaii was voluntarily annexed to the United States; that it has no vote in the American congress but turns in large internal revenue and customs collections. Hawaii, they say, is prepared for home rule "in keeping with the American governmental tradition."

GIGANTIC PAYROLL

The National Small Businessmen's Association in a recent tabulation of the national payroll for January 1940 disclosed the fact that each month the government at Washington makes out checks to more than 12,400,000 persons on the federal payroll. The number seems unbelievable to most of us who have not studied the situation, and the association adds that this number does not include the approximately 1,700,000 direct relief cases charged to the government.

Space here forbids giving an analysis of the payroll in detail. But checks are given to 968,851 on the administrative payroll, 294,000 to the military, 858,694 to those receiving military pensions and aids, 319,613 on the Federal Public Works, 2,202,638 on the WPA, 293,692 in the CCC camps, 758,354 in the National Youth Administration, 1,925,957 to those receiving old age assistance, 3,468,281 receiving farm aid payments. The monthly payroll in all was $509,150,000, which is at the rate of considerably more than six billion dollars a year!

Of course it is not to be maintained that a great deal of the activity is not necessary and worthy. But it is a fact that with so many persons getting federal pay checks the growth of bureaucracy is not at all surprising. It is estimated that the federal payroll contributes directly to some 26,000,000 in 11,000,000 families, with every third family in the country being supported in some degree by a federal check.

If you are interested in democracy, and opposed to federal paternalism or totalitarianism these figures ought to set you to thinking.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FAMILY FUN WITH READING

FREQUENTLY in this column I have urged parents to read to the child, beginning in his second year and continuing long past the time he enters school. Thus a parent not only gives a child wholesome pleasure but also cultivates ease and force of expression in him, fires his imagination or fills him with facts and motivates him to learn to read, by and by, to himself.

Something else happens when the parent reads daily to the child for years and years. The parent improves his own speech and style of writing. I can testify I used to speak and write more laboriously than at present. When I wrote my doctor's dissertation I toiled for weeks and months writing it after all the data were assembled; and when it was finished it was hard to read. For a number of years thereafter I still wrote with great difficulty, having to re-write repeatedly.

Helpful to Parents, Too

But, beginning with the first child, about 1914, I read to him, and continued with him and the other children as they came along. I eventually developed a much simpler style and slowly acquired more ease in writing. However, bad it be still, it certainly has improved in directness and simplicity since then.

The reason is not hard to find. Folk lore and other materials such as Kipling's Just So Stories, Robinson Crusoe and the Bible, from which I read to these children have choice style. As you read to your baby and young child, my fellow parent, you not only help him but you also help yourself. You improve your own speech and writing.

Time was when nearly all reading at school was oral reading. By and by it was discovered that many children could read well without knowing what they read. Then there developed a strong emphasis at school on silent reading so that many children now in high school can scarcely read aloud from a page of average difficulty. Naturally such a person does not read aloud for pleasure. Fortunately, the pendulum is slowly swinging to more oral reading.

The youth or adult who wishes to improve his vocabulary, his ease and forcefulness of speech and writing, should read aloud every day. Abraham Lincoln read aloud not only while a boy but also when a man, even while in the White House. The fact may help explain the simple potent English he employed.

Habit of Reading Aloud

Lincoln's speeches are good material for us and our children to read aloud. So also are some of the books Abe Lincoln read including Robinson Crusoe, Pilgrim's Progress and the Bible. There's no better English to read than the Psalms, Isaiah, or the Gospels, in the King James Version. Fortunate the family where its members often read aloud to one another. When all alone in a hotel where a Bible usually is in every room, I often read aloud hoping to improve my style of speech and writing. Anyone who cares can improve his expression "without money and without price."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Would you spank a tot of three who deliberately had thrown a block at the mirror, in order to make him pick up the block after he had refused to do so?

A. No; I wouldn't even command him to pick it up then. I would leave the block or pick it up myself. But I would spank him immediately after he had so thrown the block to keep him from repeating a like offense. I would try to make painful only the thing I wanted him not to do or repeat. I would try to make pleasant what I wanted him to do or do again.

Q. Can we at home help educate our children against cheating at school?

A. Yes; by exercising ideals and habits of integrity in ourselves and cultivating in our children from their early years the desire to rely on themselves.

Just Folks

SCHOOLING

In school he learned to read and add
And multiply and spell,
And something of life's good and bad
The teachers tried to tell.

They taught him where and how are made
The things of every day
And all the distant ports of trade.
They taught him games to play.

But when at last his books were learned
And theory and rule
With song and pretty speech they turned
The fledging out of school.

They turned him loose to find his way
Through selfishness and doubt
And fear and hate and dark dismay
They'd never talked about.

They turned him out to make his way
And hoped he'd prosper well
Against life's danger night and day
They hadn't dared to tell.

An objection to one way streets is that they are not sociable. You never meet people.

It looks as if Mussolini was always ready for war. At least he is always dressed in a uniform.

Former Governor Earle is going to be asked to pay for $16,747 worth of state owned airplanes he busted up while governor. His son will also be asked to pay $1,700 for the planes he wrecked. Make them cough up!

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"Yes," said the boastful young man, "my family can trace its ancestors back to William, the Conqueror."

"I suppose," remarked a friend, "you'll be telling us that your ancestors were in the ark with Noah?"

"Certainly not," said the other. "My people had a boat of their own."

We should not quibble about dollars when the safety of our country is at stake.

Many a girl is given the illusion of bow legs by just getting the seam of her stockings on crooked.

A Pittsburgh lady in her divorce suit said she would rather be a divorced wife than a golf widow. Well, a divorced wife can get around more without being criticised.

A PLUCKED CHICKEN

Two housemaids were discussing things during a lull in work at their respective and adjoining establishments.

"I think I'll have my eyebrows plucked," said Mabel.

"Won't that be pretty expensive?" asked Tilly.

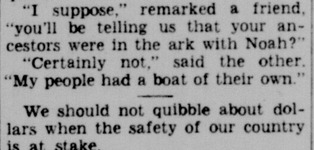
"It would," said Mabel, "but my boy friend Jack, who works down at the poultry house, is going to do it for me."

Herbert Hoover is doing his utmost to keep us out of war. Wouldn't another ex-president, working along the same lines, be a great help? We can make another ex-president. We only have one now.

No one gets into trouble for what he doesn't say.

MORE DESCRIPTIVE

We note that the crop of bathing beauty contest winners is with us again. Some headline writers, caption pictures of "also rans", as "runners up" in the race. This may be technically correct, but after looking over the pictures we feel that "bulgers out" would be just as correct.



What your friends tell you about their friends is amusing, but you can't enjoy it for wondering what they tell about you.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Of all the mothers I know the one who maintains the strictest vigilance over her daughters was herself, a very wild girl. Whenever twitted about the change in her own standards, she replies that, from experiencing the temptations confronting modern girls, she has gained practical knowledge of the surest means of protecting her own daughters against them.

"My life is dedicated to sparing Doris and Phyllis from deeds which they will regret during their twenties and thirties," she told me this morning. "Ultramodern girls, like mine, in high school and college, think of us as 'old women in their thirties and forties' and tell us our ideas are 'dated' when we guard them against cheapening themselves. The most dangerous enemies against whom I must now protect my girls are those companions who preach the pernicious doctrine that boys will consider them back numbers unless they submit to promiscuous petting and take a drink whenever asked to. The very last bit of worldly wisdom a girl ever learns is that the sophisticated boys who twit girls on their decency and temperance are invariably the very ones who are first to demand that their wives, like Caesar's wife, must always have been, from the cradle up, 'above suspicion.' "

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Please suggest some appropriate objects to be placed on my mantelpiece, which is over a brick fireplace.—H. F.

Answer: Glassware or ornaments of fine texture are distinctly out of place with brick. Pieces made of sturdy materials, such as wood, brass, iron or coarse pottery, are more in keeping. As a decorative arrangement for your mantlepiece, I suggest a heavy clock, perhaps of wood, as your chief object of interest, placed in the center; one ornament made of pottery placed on one side of the clock, miniatures in wide frames, and, as end-pieces, brass candlesticks.

If you have not an appropriate clock, you might then in its place hang a picture about two inches above the mantel. But do not allow both a picture and a clock to occupy this point of interest, as the effect of overcrowding will result.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—A Graceful Exit.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Science is a great thing but often it brings much mental misery. A case in point is the announcement that banana juice is now available in tins.

This, no doubt, is a great forward stride, but just think of the shock to the heart of the small boy who always could figure out a prank or two with a banana skin.

A resolution has been passed by the California legislature asking congress for an appropriation of $250,000,000 for coast defense of that state. After seeing the length of the coast of that state we think they should ask for more than that—and get it.

A man in Fresno, Cal., was refused citizenship papers because he told the judge Hitler was the best man in the world. However he does not want to go back to where Hitler is.

"Newlywed" postcards this one: "If any of you boys think that because women's apparel is getting skimpier and skimpier, two can live as cheaply as one, then it is time for you to stop, think and listen."

Before this country goes to war, except in self-defense, it might be well to get the opinion of the men who will have to do the fighting.

Happiness is coming tomorrow. We haven't time for it today.

A man was trying to sell a windbroken horse. To detract the attention of the buyer from the animal's rather labored breathing, he said, among other things:

"Look at this beautiful coat—a real chestnut. Don't you like it?"

"Yes," the man replied. "I like his coat, all right, but the trouble is, I don't like his pants."

Only about 12,000 planes are being made in a year in this country now. It is planned to make 50,000 a year from now on. That work cannot start any too soon.

What's become of the old-fashioned man who put a notice in the paper like this:

"Will the person who borrowed my wheel barrow please return same, and no questions will be asked?"

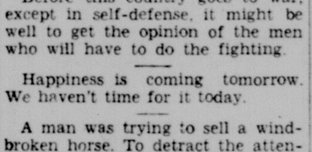
Since men no longer have bootstraps by which to lift themselves, they must use faith instead.

In the earlier days a family without a thermometer knew the temperature was low when they found a nest of eggs frozen.

Our friend, Archie, was married recently. Being asked to speak at his wedding dinner, he rose in confusion, and laying his hand on his bride's shoulder for support stammered: "Th-th-this has been forced on me rather unexpectedly."

Two clairvoyants married. After a year someone asked the wife how they were getting along.

"Oh," she said, "just medium."



A good fur coat is like a man of high character. No matter how frayed and seedy it becomes, it still looks better than a cheap imitation.

Two salesmen met at an ad club meeting.

"I sell salt," one introduced himself.

"I'm a salt seller, too," said the other.

"Shake," said the first.

"Open wider, please—wider," a local dentist exhorted the patient.

"A-a-a-ah," mumbled the patient, obliging as best he could.

"How," asked the dentist, after inserting a rubber gag a towel and a sponge, "is your family?"

Every married couple should make it a point to attend a wedding occasionally, and hear again those solemn vows they made once themselves.

Pan American Attitude Satisfies
Are Determined To Stay Democratic
Daniels Says Mexico Is Anti-Nazi

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON is very well satisfied with evidences of the Pan Americas' determination to remain democratic no matter what happens in Europe. All advices from capitals of the southern republics are to the effect that liberty-loving elements in their part of the new world simply have been strengthened by recent German successes, in their resolve to keep totalitarianism from gaining a foothold in our hemisphere.

If there's any southern country concerning which Washington, most confidentially, has been a trifle uneasy, it's Mexico. Congressman Martin Dies, for instance, has suggested that un-American propaganda is dangerously prevalent just below the Rio Grande.

However, Josephus Daniels, our ambassador in Mexico City, who probably is as good a judge as Congressman Dies, says it isn't. The ambassador, temporarily away from his post on a visit home, reports that, while there's a Mexican Communistic party, it isn't strong, and that Nazi-ism is unpopular in the republic. Furthermore, he mentions that, if the Dies committee knows anything more of totalitarian plotting on Mexico's side of the border than the Mexican government knows, the latter government will be glad to be enlightened. This doesn't sound particularly undemocratic so far as Mexico is concerned.

Of course, Yankee-Mexican relations have been somewhat strained by the oil controversy, but that doesn't in the least imply that Mexico is totalitarian.

Emphatically Neutral

Argentina, Uruguay and Panama have been quicker than Uncle Sam has been to resent overseas disregard of American neutrality. They were prompt to take offense at the landing of British and French marines in the Dutch West Indies. We were disposed to wink at it. They are almost more neutral than we are. They're so neutral that they verge on being willing to fight for neutrality.

They're for Pan-American solidarity, anyhow. If it does have to be fought for, Uncle Sam will have to do the fighting—not the Pan Americas in their entirey. Still, they're in favor of it.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

FIFTH COLUMNISTS

Washington, May 22.

THERE is no desire to start a spy hunt or to become hysterical about the fact that this country is belatedly about to embark upon a greatly stepped-up defense program. Nevertheless, it seems worth while to point out that all of the danger to our well-being does not lie outside the country. Some of it is inside.

WHILE it is essential to provide weapons and equipment to meet any attack from air, sea or land, it is equally essential to guard against the subversive influences that live and operate inside the United States. There is no more doubt of the existence of these influences than there is of their complete disloyalty. Their first allegiance is not to this country but to countries and parties whose object is to wreck our institutions and overturn our system.

IN recent days there has been ample evidence of the effectiveness of so-called "fifth columns" in Norway, in Denmark, and in Holland. There is reason to believe that in Belgium, too, the sudden surrender of the key fortress of Eben-Emaels was due more to the traitors inside than to the mythical "secret weapon" of the Germans, which seems to be more a piece of typical Nazi terror propaganda than a reality. In the dispatches recently there was news of a roundup of "fifth columnists" in England and the imprisonment of some 3,000 suspected of subversive activities.

AND before the war in France there were Communist strikes in munition plants and Communist resistance to the efforts to prepare. After the war began, the French Government dealt severely with the Communist leaders but there is slight question that had France, in the days of preparation for this life-and-death struggle in which she is now engaged, vaccinated against the corrosive effect of Communist activity and propaganda, France would be a stronger nation now. There is not the slightest doubt that internal movements of Fascism and Communism have weakened the Allied nations and sapped the resisting powers of at least some of the neutrals who have suffered ravishment and now find the heel of the dictator grinding their faces.

IF these fifth-column activities have been so general among the European neutrals, it is unreasonable to suppose that they have not extended to this country. Only a fool would feel that we are free from them. If the threat is as real as the President has told us—and no clearheaded person thinks he has exaggerated it—then it is the height of folly to disregard this domestic situation. Of course, we are not at war and no one seriously wants to suggest that steps be taken now that would abridge the civil liberties of citizens or resrict the freedom of speech.

NEVERTHELESS, it would seem to be a sensible thing if, while we are concentrating upon strengthening and supplementing our army, navy and aerial equipment so as to repel the possible invader from outside, we could at the same time tighten up the lines so as to guard

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WILLIAM GRAHAM SUMNER

While the writer was an undergraduate at Yale, he was fortunate to receive the instruction of William Graham Sumner in the Science of Poltical Economy. Professor Sumner was, without doubt, during the active years of his life, the soundest exponent of political economy then living.

Coming as I did from Western Pennsylvania, I was thoroughly wrapped up in the advisability of protective tariff. Sumner, however, was a free trader. He pushed aside the arguments for high wages and development of natural resources, which followed in the wake of our protective tariff system, and said that the human race was entitled to receive the products of labor and capital, which had been produced at the lowest cost; in other words, the free trade doctrine was based upon the principle that there were certain natural resources already developed in the world and until they were exhausted, it was a wanton waste to develop resources of the same nature in other parts of the world,—a right principle for the people of the world, as a whole, but a very poor system to practice by the peoples of a new nation who were eager to build for themselves.

However, there are a coterie of men who came under the influence of Professor Sumner in his lifetime who plan this year to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of his birth, and in this connection these men who are evidently mostly opposed to the principles of the New Deal, call attention to the fact that the shibboleth of our President was borrowed from Professor Sumner. The President harped, in his first campaign, upon the "Forgotten Man" and what he was going to do for the "Forgotten Man." To the President the "Forgotten Man" was the down-and-outer; the man who had no work and no capital, and who needed the help of the government to put him on his feet. This was no Sumner's "Forgotten Man." Sumner's "Forgotten Man" was the middle man,—the man who had some property; who was not engaged in manufacturing on a large scale; who was not, in other words, a rich capitalist and who was not a poor laborer. He was a man who was caught between the upper and nether millstone of taxation. He was the man who paid the bill, the cost of government. Among Sumner's books is one known as "Folkways", meaning the customs, beliefs and habits of masses of people. He enlarges upon the "Forgotten Man" and among the things he said in that book are these.

"The right to the pursuit of happiness is nothing but the right to live one's life in one's own way."

"Blundering experiments in legislation cannot be simply abandoned if they do not work well. Even if they are set aside, they leave their effects behind, and they create vested interests which make it difficult to set them aside."

The last paragraph is very illuminating, for supposing that a conservative man is elected President of these United States this fall, what is he going to do about the "blundering experiments" made by the present administration.

Bible Thought For Today

And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels: and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.—Malachi 3:17.

YES, speed's fine in its place, but in cigarettes, millions have learned that the big extras in pleasure and value are on the slow side... the slow-burning side. Naturally, the slower your cigarette burns, the cooler the smoking... the more mildness and flavor you get.

Camels... made from costlier tobaccos... are definitely slower-burning. They give you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor—and extra smoking per cigarette per pack (see below).

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

What's What At A Glance

South American east coast. A couple of Brazil's southern states are nearly wholly German. They'd like to Nazify the entire country. But the very fact that they're so Nazificated makes the rest of Brazil hate them. And the anti-Nazis greatly predominate throughout the country elsewhere.

Italians are thick in Argentina. The newspaper with the largest Argentine circulation is an Italian-language daily—La Patria degli Italiani of Buenos Aires. But the country's so violently anti-Fascist that I've seen anti-Fascist riots there, in which hundreds were killed. I had to hunt my hole myself.

The Latin-American west coast hasn't so many Germans, Italians or any Russians, to speak of at all. But there they're afraid of the Japanese. Their reasoning is about what ours used to be when we were cursing Oriental "cheap labor."

Only, now, they discuss military conquest as well as cheap labor.

Getting Practical

The whole thing's this:

It's simmering down to a practicality.

The Americas, south of the United States, hate their dictatorships.

They're getting to be democratic.

In short, we're becoming a truly democratic hemisphere.

Taken individually, we always have ben theoretically democratic. But, country by country; no, collectively.

If we can get a union? Oh, my!

The Great Game Of Politics

against mining, sapping and sabotage from the inside. Certainly the danger from that is less fanciful than the danger from the outside, of which Mr. Roosevelt so solemnly and properly warns and to fend against which the Congress is prepared without much thought of how the money is to be obtained or from whom or from where, to appropriate.

FOR example, it would be somewhat comforting if, instead of asking that $200,000,000, or nearly one-fifth of the total appropriation requested, be allotted to the President personally, to expend unchecked and as he thinks best, at least a part of this sum be allotted to the Department of Justice for the purpose of keeping the closest possible watch upon the Fascist and Communist activities in this country and through the F. B. I. or any other competent agency, locating the potential fifth columnists in America, so that if and when the crisis arises, their objectives can be blocked and their power to injure nullified.

IN view of the striking record of hostility toward the Dies Committee of the Department of Justice, the President and the President's wife, to say nothing of the extraordinary White House coddling of such Communist saturated organizations as the American Youth Congress and the Workers Alliance—in view of this it would be especially encourgaing if some statement could be made or some action taken or some money allocated that would indicate to the people that this Administration is alive to the fifth-column danger in America, determined to control it and not just soggily sentimental about it.

IN final comment on this subject, it seems not untimely to say a word about the unconscious as well as the conscious fifth columnists. The former are not dangerous in the sense the latter are dangerous, but they do considerable harm nonetheless. The male and female writers who constantly bleat about our having no stake in this war, who insist that every move to aid the Allies or prepare ourselves is preliminary to sending "our boys" abroad to be butchered, who proclaim that our duty is to be "pro-American" instead of 'pro-Ally'—these people, ignorant and innocent though they may be, are playing the German game and aiding the conscious fifth columnists. Little can be done about them. There is no governmental way to stop them. The only thing that can blot them out is public opinion.

LANDON CONFERS WITH PRESIDENT AT WHITE HOUSE

was on record in advance of his meeting with the president as opposed to such a move.

G. O. P. Warnings

Other influential Republicans, meanwhile, issued urgent warnings to fellow party members against falling in line with any suggestion of that nature from Mr. Roosevelt. They contended that it would hurt G. O. P. chances in the forthcoming presidential elections.

Said House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, permanent chairman-designate of the Republican national convention in Philadelphia next month:

"Putting Republicans in the cabinet now is like increasing WPA rolls just before an election. If precedent is followed they will be out after election."

Well-founded reports that the president had offered the secretaryship of navy to Col. Frank Knox, Landon's 1936 running mate, inspired the alarm within the Republican party.

Further, it was rumored that Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R.) N. Y., was to be asked to serve as secretary of war.

Finally, political circles heard that Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City would be asked to step into an emergency government set-up as director of procurement for the defense program now being hastily whipped into shape.

Woodring In Showdown

New Deal sources said Harry Woodring, present secretary of war, would see President Roosevelt tomorrow for a showdown on his future status. Prediction was freely made that he would retire from the cabinet.

The navy portfolio will soon be open as a result of the resignation of Secretary Charles Edison, just named Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey.

Since the start of the European war, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has supervised federal purchases of war supplies as well as sale of airplanes to England and France. It was believed that the president was seeking a capable executive to give his undivided attention to the vastly increased purchases that will begin under the emergency program.

As the president prepared to receive Landon in an obvious move to bring about non-partisan support of the government's foreign policy he fended off questions about possibility of a coalition cabinet. He said that he had never heard of such a suggestion until he read it in the newspapers. He conceded, however, that a number of prominent citizens were going to be brought into the Washington picture, and inferred that some of them probably would be Republicans.

It was a Republican, Frank Altschue of New York, brother-in-law of Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who first suggested that Mr. Roosevelt call Landon and Knox to Washington as a harmony gesture. Altschue, a heavy G. O. P. campaign contributor in the past, persuaded Lehman to pass the idea on to the White House. Knox saw the president last week.

Against Huge Profits

Today's luncheon meeting between the two 1936 opponents almost came a cropper when a White House secretary called Altschue Monday night and suggested that the engagement be postponed. Word got to Landon on his way to Washington that the appointmbent had been cancelled and it took a personal telephone call from Mr. Roosevelt to straighten matters out.

Meanwhile, as the news from Europe's blood-drenched battle front hourly grew more ominous, the president laid down a three-point statement of policy which he said would guide the administration in preparing American defenses against any eventuality.

First, said Mr. Roosevelt, he did not want to see a single war millionaire created as a result of the world disaster—adding that he sanctioned a reasonable profit.

Second, the chief executive enjoined organized labor not to strike, particularly in key industries.

Thirdly, he promised that social gains of the last seven years under the New Deal would in no way be weakened by prosecution of the emergency program.

GEN. WEYGAND PLANS COUNTER-MOVES

French believe and the Germans assert, it will settle the history of Europe for a thousand years.

Issue Nof Decided

Already the German communiques claim victory, but it is essential to realize that the issue of this battle is not yet decided and will not be until the French army has a chance to put into effect its famed tradition of offensive.

Weygand, who is 73, left Paris early yesterday (seven words censored.) His trip lasted until deep into the night and took him over the entire territory where the Germans are now attempting to blast out of existence the British and the Belgians and then turn and sweep upon Paris.

Nobody can do more than guess about the subject, which is one of the most closely guarded military secrets, but neutral military observers believe that the French army has still a very great deal of drive in it.

May Reverse Tide

It is pointed out that vigorous action, well prepared, might reserve the tide of events and result in cutting off the principal German Panzer divisions, seriously cripple the German army and not only win this battle but decide the war.

This is felt today to be France's greatest chance at the moment, when her capital stands almost empty in the brilliant sunshine and the pain of anxiety may be seen on every face.

The knowledge that Paris was threatened came as a terrific shock to most people here, and for a time there was the inevitable tendency among the faint-hearted to consider that all was lost.

But this mood has passed, at any rate for the moment.

Now the possibility of evacuating the government is thought of in terms of comparison with the last war, when preparations were made to leave Paris at the start of a conflict that it now seems difficult to believe that France won.

But there is one thing that is different about this war. That is a French realization that they could not capitulate as they did in 1870 and expect similar treatment.

Therefore the French answer to any possible move for peace is not likely to satisfy Hitler.

Authoritative circles believe the Fuehrer's plan now is to hold the line occupied chiefly with eight Panzer divisions with six more of infantry from Sedan to Abbeville, then reduce the British and Belgians in Belgium and offer a generous peace to the French on the theory they will be too tired and bloody to resist the temptation to accept.

If relieved of the French army, Hitler then could devote his entire strength to aerial bombardment and invasion of England and after finishing England could return to the unfinished task of really finishing France.

Vacant House Found Ablaze

Firemen Discover Oil Had Been Sprayed Around In Smith Street Home

City firemen reported today that they were summoned to Smith street, in the section beyond the old Paper Mill, Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, where they discovered a vacant house ablaze. Damage of a round $150 was reported.

Investigation showed that oil had been sprayed around in the attic and second floor of the house, and also found a wick made from corn cobs, soaked in oil. A container which had contained kerosene oil was also found.

The blaze was discovered before it had an opportunity to spread, and firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before much damage had been done.

State police were notified and are conducting an investigation. Neighbors are said to have seen a man leaving the house shortly before the fire was discovered.

At 8:42 o'clock Tuesday evening, firemen were summoned to the corner of Court and Ray street, where a small fire was found in an auto owned by Jerry Crangey, of 410 Vine street.

Third ward firemen were called to Harding avenue to extinguish a grass fire at 5:10 p. m., Tuesday.

TREATY OF GHENT

At Ghent, in Flanders, on December 14, 1814, the famous peace treaty was signed which formally declared at an end the War of 1812 between England and the United States. News of the treaty did not reach this country until February and fighting was still going on in Louisiana

"We're going to look at that Chrysler right now!"

Never before has interest in Chrysler run so high. Never before have so many owners of other makes changed to Chrysler.

The new Chrysler is obviously superior to the car you now have, but . . . has it occurred to you that it may also be superior to the make of car you may be thinking of buying? . . . and will cost you no more?

Go to your Chrysler dealer. Take a ride in the new Chrysler and see how the High-Torque engine improves performance . . . what amazing get-away it gives you . . . what tremendous pulling power in high gear.

A ride will show you how scientific weight distribution cradles all passengers at the center of balance and gives you riding qualities that you can get only from Chrysler.

If you want to know why Superfinished parts double engine life . . . why tin coated pistons are practically free from scuffing and scoring . . . why any engine is smoother and quieter with Floating Power . . . why Chrysler's plastic enamel actually improves with age and seasoning . . . ask your Chrysler dealer.

See your Chrysler dealer today. He's anxious for you to be among the thousands who think it wisdom to see Chrysler before they buy any car. Accept his invitation to drive the car that leads in style, performance and engineering. Ask your Chrysler dealer to figure how surprisingly little it will cost you to own a beautiful new Chrysler.

Report Russian Troops Pouring Toward Hungary

International News Service Sports

LONDON, May 22.—Thirty Russion divisions are pouring toward the Hungarian frontier and thousands of Red army soldiers are encamped there already, the London Daily Mirror said today.

A Reuters (British) dispatch from Bucharest said Russian troops were making new dispositions at a considerable scale along the Russian-German and Hungarian frontiers, according to Russo-Rumanian border reports.

The Mirror said that if Germany allows Hungary to enter Slovakia and Italy attacks Yugoslavia, the Russian army will go into action.

Soviet authorities have stated they will not tolerate any "Balkan nonsense" from Premier Mussolini, the newspaper added.

Authoritative circles in London offered no substantiation of rumors that Russia is joining the Allies.

Boy Scouts To Aid In Memorial Day Program

As one of their annual civic good turns, the Boy Scouts of Lawrence County will join to aid with the local Memorial Day program, according to Scout Executive John J. Finnessy.

On Memorial Day, May 30, the Boy Scouts from the various troops will report at 8 a. m. and will serve in their designated capacities until noon. Each troop will supply an adult leader to aid their Scouts in the work on this day.

The Scouts will assist people in carrying flowers, plants and water, clean graves and assist in whatever way possible. As one of the Scout laws forbids a Scout from receiving pay for a good turn, services of all Scouts in the cemeteries on Memorial Day will be absolutely free.

In order that the public, visiting the cemeteries, will be able to find the Scouts, all who are working on that day have been asked to wear full uniform.

Two of the older Scouts from each New Castle Troop will be assigned to report at the city police station at 8 a. m., May 30, to assist the police with the traffic and the parade.

Ellwood City Troops will do their annual good turn by assisting at the Ellwood cemeteries.

Following troops have been assigned to the cemeteries by Executive Finnessy:

Greenwood Cemetery — Troops 9, 1, 12, 15 and 55.

HANDS TELL SIZE OF HEART

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—Your hands are a dead give-away to the size of your heart, in the opinion of Dr. W. Edward Chamberlain, of Temple University Hospital, Philadelphia. He explained that a fist could be used to determine the approximate dimension of an individual's heart. A big-fisted person usually has a large "ticker," while a small-fisted person has a heart to match.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

One could compile an impressive anthology of poetry about beloved islands, starting of course with the Isles of Greece, but much less about beloved mainlands or continents.

Perhaps the highest flight of poetic love and fervor would be Shakespeare's apostrophe to the "sceptred isle," in Richard II, given to John of Gaunt's noble utterance.

In the day dreams of men and nations, islands have always meant security. They also have meant individuation—the full flowering of native genius, the fruition of something uniquely your own. Who hasn't dreamed and schemed about his own little island, held in fee simple forever, small enough to be fashioned to the heart's desire, large enough to epitomize a universe under his own benign sovereignty?

Around Kent and Essex in England, there are Norman skulls and faces, but little else to recall the conquet of 1,000 A. D. For six hundred years before that, the Nordic invaders had been pouring in. But none since then. England has defended her soil. The racial tributaries have blended. 'He's just an English-ma-a-n," as Gilbert and Sullivan had it.

When Drake routed the Spanish Armada, old England passed one critical turn of destiny. She learned the lessen of sea power then. Never again was she caught off guard. Her navy ruled the seas.

Perhaps even more critical is the ordeal by air. The aeroplane has made nightmares of age-old dreams of insularity—for the litle man in the house down the road and for the "screptred isle," wherever it may be. Even latitude and longitude don't mean what they used to mean. There is a new geography of the skies, and there is a new dark alchemy of outlaw science, new chimeras of hate abroad in the world, and it would perhaps be better for England to sink into the sea, like Atlantis, than to be overwhelmed by them.

John of Gaunt might have been thinking of Hitler when he wrote the following words:

"His rash fierce blaze of riot cannot last. For violent fires soon burn out themselves; small showers last long, but sudden storms are short; he tires betimes that spurs too fast betimes; with eager feeding, food doth choke the feeder."

But Gaunt knows England will live:

"This royal throne of kings, this sceptred isle; This earth of majesty this sea of Mars. This other Eden, demi-paradise; This fortress built by Nature for herself Against infection and the hand of war; This happy breed of men, this little world; This precious stone set in the silver sea, which serves it in the office of a wall, or as a moat defensive to a house; against the envy of less happier lands; This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England. This nurse, this teeming womb of royal kings, Feared by their breed and famous by their birth."

In Shakespeare's day there was only one England. Now there are two and it is possibly this division that has made the nation falter during the last few years in preparing to meet the new barbarism.

The feudal England of John of Gaunt was by no means liquidated by the coming of the machine. The England which loved the soil, the England of the old families, of the Hawthorne hedges and Yorkshire pudding, the England of stubborn insularity did not take kindly to Disraeli's call to empire. It was the Manchester and Birmingham industrialists, impelled to world expansion by the dynamics of their looms and forges, who led England into the adventure, and, incidentally, the power and glory, of imperialism.

Significantly, perhaps, it is the older England which, in post-war years, has been clamoring for national defense. It has been the tradesmen who have murmured "business as usual," under the maniacal threat of Hitler; it is they who have been the compromisers, the procrastinators, the side-steppers, in the interest of their dividends.

But the picture is not clear. Surely the England of the sceptred isle would have been easy pickings for Hitler were it not for the industrialization brought about by the bourgeois, inadequate as it may be, in this "fierce blaze of riot." It appears that this blaze is fluxing the two Englands. But their sea is no longer a "moat defensive to a house." Power in reserve is a characteristic of the British, both in their life and literature. Their history makes one think it will still avail them.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PREMATURE BABIES

About one in every fifteen or twenty babies is born prematurely. This ratio applies when a premature baby is defined as one carried by its mother less than the nine month period prescribed by nature. Some obstetricians also classify any child weighing less than 5.5 pounds and measuring less than 18 inches as premature. I do not think this is always sound for weight is sometimes considerably affected by other conditions than prematurity.

We know many causes of prematurity, but it is difficult for us to determine which are the commonest causes and which the rarest ones. There is basis for belief that extreme youth, first pregnancy, malnutrition, great daily physical exertion, time of year and sex of the infant may shorten pregnancies for varying periods.

Studies of this subject are made difficult by the fact that even with the help of knowledge of a patient's history and physical examinations and X-rays indicating the duration of the pregnancy and the size of the foetus, no one can yet predict the actual date of labor with mathematical precision. It isn't even certain it will come in the ninth month: there are cases of pregnancies prolonged beyond 311 days (10 months).

One thing we are sure of: prematurity is to be expected in cases of multiple birth. When a mother is carrying two, three or more foetuses, then there is a very strong tendency for them to be borne early. In such cases prematurity is more often a blessing than not. Carrying two or three babies the full natural term is such a strain that lives of both mother and children are endangered. Of course, this isn't true in cases of twins to the same degree that it is when there are triplets, quadruplets or quintuplets.

If the Dionne Quintuplets had been carried the full term, they would have been so crowded that they might have all died and cost their mother her life as well. However, since they were born at least two months prematurely they had not developed to the stage of crowding each other seriously and so they were safely and easily delivered.

Persons often write me to tell me how highly they think of me for delivering the five safe and sound. Really, that was no feat at all. The real job was to keep them alive after they were born.

The more premature the birth, the smaller the baby, and therefore the easier the labor and delivery are on the baby and the mother. But the more premature the baby, the less is its chance of survival. It is fairly well established that no child can survive if it is born before the 196th day (6 months, 13 days) of pregnancy.

I have written before about the care that must be taken of premature babies: they must have incubators, another source of mother's milk and other things if the baby is to survive. Of course, if the baby is born in a hospital, these things are all at hand. But if the child is born out in the country, or even in a home in a town or village, the necessities are seldom available. Improvised substitutes must be used, and it isn't very often that these substitutes are satisfactory in all respects.

In the case of the Quintuplets, we had no apparatus or equipment, but the facts of their birth were so sensational that heroic things were done to get equipment in to them. If just one baby had been born, and it two months premature, the world never would have heard about it. We would have had to struggle along without incubators, refrigerators and other aids. The chances of that one child surviving wouldn't have been great. The death rate for premature babies is five to ten times as high as for infants carried the full time.

Fortunately, proper prenatal care of mothers, carried out under the direction of a physician, enables them to avoid most of the hazards that induce or accompany prematurity. When more mothers have proper prenatal care, prematurity will be less of a problem to us.

AROUND CITY HALL

Traffic was congested Saturday night in the downtown area and traffic which moved north and south did so at a slow pace because some autoists in following a preceding car paid small attention to the rights of north and south cars and drove beneath traffic lights, blocking cross sections. According to reports there is considerable less time for north and south traffic than that for the Washington street movements. Under the present system of lights no time can be taken from the Washington street direction and added to the north and south traffic. It is likely that before traffic becomes too congester it may be necessary to place police on corners to move traffic more quickly and force motorists to obey the lights.

EIGHTY-ONE FAIRS ARE SCHEDULED

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Eighty-one Pennsylvania agricultural and county fairs will be held this year according to a preliminary list issued today by John H. Light, Secretary of Agriculture.

Agricultural fairs in the United States were organized by Elkanah Watson, of Albany, New York in 1819—Philadelphia soon followed when the Philadelphia Horticultural society of that city held its first county fairs in 1839 which it continued for many years. The first York County fair was held in 1851. The idea of holding county fairs grew. In 1855 Lehigh county held its first agricultural fair, Indiana county followed in 1857 and Bradford in 1859. The following year Clearfield county spread the canvass for its initial fair. Among other counties that held early fairs were Susquehanna in 1864, Bedford 1875, Tioga 1879, Sullivan 1883, and Cambia 1887.

Democratic State Committee Supports Third Term

Myers Is Elected State Chairman

Democratic Session Is Concluded With Hopes Of Victory In Fall

HARR IS NAMED TO DIRECT CAMPAIGN

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 22. — With Meredith Meyers at the helm, Pennsylvania's newly-reorganized Democratic State Committee turned to the fall election campaign today buoyed by hopes for victory.

Meyers, 55, publisher of the Lewistown Sentinel, and a veteran Democrat, was unanimously chosen state chairman to succeed David L. Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, who retired.

Harr Is Selected

He promptly picked Dr. Luther A. Harr, Philadelphia city treasurer, to direct the state-wide Democratic campaign next fall. Dr. Harr managed U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey's statewide primary election campaign for renomination, with Meyers directing the senator's forces in 16 Central Pennsylvania counties.

Without a dissenting vote, Lawrence and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Guffey's sister, were elected to the Democratic National Committee.

Henry A. Brockerhoff, Bellefonte, was chosen as state treasurer to succeed Paul B. Noftsker, Shippensburg.

In one of the liveliest contests waged at the state committee meeting, Miss Marie Bickert, Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. Edith B. Dewitt, Williamsport, incumbent, and Mrs. John J. Kane, Pittsburgh, for the state committee vice chairmanship.

Walter Miller, Pittsburgh, was appointed resident secretary of the state committee, and Paul C. Lewis, Philadelphia, a Harr lieutenant, as executive secretary. Miller's is the only salaried job on the committee. He succeeded Carl K. Deen of Camp Hill, who had held the job for many years.

Sees Third Term Effort

The committee adopted unanimously a resolution promising its support for President Roosevelt, and Guffey expressed confidence that the president would run for a third term.

"I expect the president to run again," he said. "If he does he will carry Pennsylvania by a bigger majority than in 1936, when he polled some 600,000 votes more than his opponent.

"But whether he runs or not we are going to win."

Meyers announced that he would confer with Harr in Philadelphia over the week-end to agree upon a campaign committee, composed of nine to 11 members representative of all elements within the party.

Kelly submitted the resolution calling on the president to run for re-election, seconded the nomination of Mrs. Miller to the National Committee, and commended Senator Guffey for his support of the administration at Washington.

Fifty new members were among the 109 who attended the state committee meeting in Harrisburg. The committee numbers 113 members.

With less than a week remaining until B. & O. day is celebrated in New Castle, the committees handling the arrangements for the party on May 28 are satisfied the crowd this year will exceed any previous ones. The party will be a dinner-dance affair in the Cathedral on Tuesday, May 28, with a host of the railroad executives here.

The party is being handled under the sponsorship of the CTP group of the road, with R. A. Garrigus as general chairman. Some of the executives who will be represented are C. W. Galloway, vice president; General Manager F. B. Mitchell, who will be the principal speaker; Eastern General Manager C. W. Van Horn, General Superintendent A. A. Iams, Freight Traffic Manager O. S. Lewis, Superintendent of Transportation D. F. Stevens, Division Superintendent W. C. Baker and District Master Mechanic Harry Rees.

Roessel Toastmaster

C. J. Roessel, division freight agent of Youngstown, O., will be the toastmaster and for the entertainment this year the commmittee has secured the famous Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Glee club. The club was here some months ago under the auspices of the Lions club and gave the people an idea of what a real glee club is.

As the result of B. & O. day some Lawrence county youngster is going to the World's Fair at the expense of the CTP group. An essay contest is being conducted throughout the schools of the county and the winner will be announced on May 28, with Vice President C. W. Galloway handing the prize to the fortunate student. The subject of the essay is "What the B. & O. Means To Lawrence County". Well known educators are the adjudicators.

Dancing will complete the evening. B. & O. men and their wives along with Mr and Mrs. New Castle will be present at the party. The idea back of the celebration is to bring to the attention of the community the importance of the railroad in this county.

Mercer County Will Resurface Many Highways

(Special To The News)

MERCER, May 21.—Resurfacing of about 58 miles of blacktop highway in Mercer county will begin Thursday, James G. Dimmick, superintendent of State Highways, announced today.

The resurfacing will be started in Fairview township and Delaware township, on rural roads. The longest stretch to be surfaced is four miles on Route 43034, between Sandy Lake and Kremis.

Dimmick said that Highway department employes will begin putting surface on several new roads that have been constructed by WPA June 3.

The work will be completed about July 15.

Repairs on bridge over the Neshannock creek, on the Mercer-Blacktown road are being completed this week and the route will be opened for traffic in about ten days, Dimmick said.

Fire Destroys Truck-Trailer

(Special To The News)

MERCER, May 22.—A 10-ton tractor trailer unit and its contents of miscellaneous freight was destroyed by fire Tuesday on the Perry highway, three miles south of Mercer.

The truck owned by the Kultau Motor Freight Company, Pittsburgh, stopped near the home of Clarence Tindall about 2:45 a. m. The driver and his helper, whose name was not learned, were unable to extinguish the fire or save any of the contents of the trailer.

The Mercer Fire department was called but the fire was too far advanced to prevent complete loss of the truck and freight.

Huge Crop Of Tomatoes Being Harvested Now In Lawrence County

About this time of year you are probably setting out your tomato plants, hoping for no frost, no wilt, no cut worms, and a large enough crop that you can serve your guests fresh tomatoes. That would be about August 1.

While you are getting ready to harvest your crop from that two dozen plants you are setting out, there is a crop of tomatoes being harvested in Lawrence County—now—a crop of large, juicy beauties that have the appearance, the taste and the general lusciousness of the finest tomatoes you ever raised in your garden under the most favorable circumstances.

A Tomato Forest

The tomatoes are those grown in the greenhouses of W. H. Weinschenk at Savannah. Four houses are used in the tomato industry, the largest being 1.6 acres under glass. This house contains 11,000 tomato plants, all about nine feet high, supported by strings of heavy cord tied to heavy wires running across the top like wires in a piano. Walking through the greenhouse is walking through a tomato forest.

Time was when this same house contained 17,000 plants and the yield was less than is now gotten with 11,000 plants. The answer is in scientific treatment of the plants. They are coddled like a growing child, given the proper plant food at the proper time, given just the right amount of water and heat is kept on all night to avoid certain plant diseases.

Iron, phosporus, nitrate of soda, manganese, nitrogen, potash and plenty of manure, all of them given with the same careful attention that your doctor prescribes for you and the results show what scientific growing will do. The tomatoes have all the elements of outdoor grown tomatoes but because they are not subjected to the extremes of the weather they are not as watery, smoother skinned and better tasted. The last phrase we hate to admit but after sampling them that's our opinion.

Three Other Houses

Three other houses bring the total plants up to 17,000 and by the end of the season there will have been taken from the four houses an average of two 8 pound baskets of tomatoes, a total of 34,000 such baskets, or if you like figures, a total of 272,000 pounds of tomatoes.

Joseph I Weinschenk is the general manager of the greenhouses and to his four years of agricultural training in Penn State he has added years of research in order to get the most perfect possible results. Each year sees a larger yield from the plants because of further developments in plant feeding.

The seed is planted in December of each year and early in January the plants are above the ground. Then it is they get their first touch of coddling. The days are dark and the daylight hours few but the deficiency of daylight is compensated by the use of huge electric lights which make the greenhouses almost as light as day. About two hours in the morning and two in the late afternoon give the plants a long day to grow. In short they are getting April weather in January with no chance of frost or snow to blight them.

Feeding Starts

Prior to the planting the ground has been sterilized of all harmful organisms and shortly after the plants are above ground they are given their first ration of chemical elements. Too much of one element and not of another sometimes results in the chemical elements "locking." They must be fed to the plants in proper proportion, with manure acting as a catalytic agent in releasing their beneficient elements.

Proper feeding means tomatoes down low just above the ground and the same size and color high on the stem. It means hard work, proper knowledge of soil and plant chemistry and an innate genius for growing things. These seem to be some of the Weinschenk characteristics.

By late July the plants will have given the limit of their productive capacities and they are torn out to make way for leaf lettuce. In the meantime the outdoor gardens are booming and about 100 acres of lima beans, string beans and cabbage are on their way.

Just now there are about 30 people working in the Weinschenk greenhouses. This force will be doubled when the beans start to come and the cabbage is ready for harvest.

But this article is about tomatoes, tons and tons of them, hanging in great clusters on strong stalks, with huge leaves acting as the lungs of the plants.

Where do they go? All over this part of the United States. Daily the trucks roll out of the greenhouses loaded with the luscious vegetable, headed for Pittsburgh or Youngstown or Cleveland, bound for the tables of those who like their tomatoes in and out of season.

A trip through the large greenhouse just now is as satisfying as a trip through a greenhouse devoted to flowers. There isn't the same variety of color and odor, but just walking down the long rows of the giant tomato plants looking longingly at the clusters of tomatoes hanging there gives you an appetite and makes you regret the fact that you forgot to put a salt shaker in your pocket.

Many Visiting Survey Office

Historical Records Survey Exhibits Work Which Has Been Accomplished

In connection with "This work pays your Community Week" work done by the Historical Records Survey, in charge of Albert Wilkins, which is located on the third floor of the Court House Annex is being displayed to visitors.

This office has surveyed all of the records of the Court House, compiling data on where every record is located, all business transactions of the county have been recorded, and the volume of business which is done.

A complete and authentic history of the county has been compiled, taken from verified official records. This shows when the county was created, a copy of the act of legislature, and a record of all county officials from the beginning of the county, taken from the election dockets.

In addition, a survey is being made, which will be a complete history of all churches in the county.

When this work is completed, it will be sent to Philadelphia, where it will be placed in a bound volume, a copy of which will be placed in the library and another in the court house, where it will be available for public information.

The office operates under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, whose main office is in Philadelphia.

Copies of the first newspapers ever published in New Castle were unearthed by the survey and have been rebound and placed in the Public Library. These were discovered while making a research on records.

Red Sox Upset Detroit Tigers

Jimmy Foxx For Second Straight Day Homers With Bases Loaded

INDIANS FOLD UP BEFORE YANKEES

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 21.—If Jimmy Foxx can continue to keep a misbehaving pair of sinuses under control this year, he may win the American league's most valuable player award as he did once before; may shatter Babe Ruth's home run record, and may even surpass Hack Wilson's mark for runs batted in during a season.

The Red Sox slugger again earned a line in the record books alongside of Ruth and Bill Dickey by hitting a homer with the bases loaded for the second day in succession.

This smash was the major factor in the Red Sox 11-8 victory over the Tigers and boosted Jimmy's total of runs batted in to 38 for 26 games. At this rate, he would have about 225 for the year or 35 more than Wilson's 190.

Yanks Top Indians

That homer was No. 11 for Jim, which is about the pace Ruth set in 1927 when the Bambino rang the bell 60 times.

Doerr, Cramer and Williams also hit for the circuit for the Red Sox yesterday and Greenberg and York contributed similar wallops for the Tigers.

The victory increased the Red Sox lead over the Indians who dropped a 10-2 decision to the aroused Yankees. Young Russo held the Indians to three hits while his mates were handing Milnar his first defeat.

The White Sox put over two markers in the ninth to beat the Senators, 9-8; and the unfortunate Athletics were stopped by rain while leading the Browns 6-0 in the first half of the fifth.

There was only one game in the National and in that one some nifty relief pitching by an Mungo and Dolph Camilli's single with three aboard in the ninth gave the Dodgers two runs and a 4-3 verdict over the Cubs.

West Side And Union Civics On Short End In Independent Loop

Nashua trimmed the West Side A. C., 8-2, and Harbor lampooned the Union Civics, 7-2, in City-County Independent League games played Tuesday.

J. Sagnich, classy Nashua hurler, was superb, limiting his foes to three hits and striking out 14 batsmen. At the plate Sagnich helped his own cause by rapping a double and two singles.

Woods, of Harbor, turned in a four hitter while his mates garnered seven bingles off Chiafullo, Union pegger. Clark had two hits for the winners, Schaas and French poled out triples for the Harbor.

Fritzie Zivic made short work of Ossie Harris, former amateur at Forbes field, Pittsburgh last night. He knocked down Ossie for a count of nine in the first, outboxed Harris in the second and in the third brought home the bacon. A right to the chin dropped Ossie in the initial round and a left cross followed by a right uppercut to the chin settled the question of superiority. Gus Dorazio won a 10-round decision from Wild Bill Boyd; Tony Cisco and Lloyd Marshall fought a draw and Jimmie Webb won from Johnny Kapovich in 10-round bouts. A crowd of New Castle fans attended the McGinley-Rooney fistic offering.

Garcia-Overlin Battle Thursday

Middleweight Champion Garcia Favored To Defeat Former U. S. Sailor

NEW YORK CITY SCENE OF SCRAP

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 22.—In this era of upsets, stunning form reversals are commonplace, and in boxing circles around here today a change in ownership of that part of the middleweight title held by Ceferino Garcia, a Los Angeles Filipino, was foreseen. The wagering is running for the champion at odds of 9 to 5, but a considerable number of the habitues of cauliflower alley are stringing along with Ken Overlin to jab, cuff and dance lightly, but definitely, to a 15-round decision in tomorrow night's tussle at Madison Square Garden. Because Garcia slices easily around the eyes, some even suggest the possibility of a technical knockout victory for the challenger.

Fine Record

A former sailor who saw only two ports while he was aboard the U. S. S. Idaho and U. S. S. Tennessee, Overlin since then has boxed on three continents, taking in virtually every city of any consequence in this country, running up a grand total of 173 starts, of which he has lost only seven. He has blown only one decision in a score of fights in the last two years and seemingly has an excellent chance to take the crown which Garcia won by knocking out Fred Apostoli last October.

The best Garcia has been able to do with the championship is to defend it against Glen Lee with a knockout and against little Henry Armstrong in a draw. The latter rates Overlin as a good bet because of his extremely good left hand, and believes that he himself would have beaten, instead of drawing Garcia, if he had any kind of a jab.

Sports World Ramblings

Notes scribbled on a reporter's cuffs while the Phillies scored seven runs and the Pirates entertained the bleacherites with a skit entitled, "A Day at the Circus", or "How Not to Play Baseball":

Part of Lawrence County's hustling mitt slinging coterie will perform in the hempen strands of the Monaca high ring, June 1. Billy Reale, who is built like a cement building, is listed to swap punches with the one man circus, Muddy Kurtz, of McKees Rocks. The Castlewood plowboy, who is a stickler in the ring, may halt Kurtz's show if he tags the clown . . .

After a lapse of several weeks, portside Frankie Moran will don the gauntlets, taking on one of the cleverest amateurs in the district, agile Joey Yarosz, one of Teddy's younger brothers, is ripening too fast and soon hopes to sprout into the professional field. A victory for hard hitting Frankie, especially via knockout, would enhance the localite's record . . .

Cool-headed and courageous Russ Baxter, the slick looking blond, is slated to tangle with Dave Coleman, dusky Niles, Ohio pug. Baxter, who hasn't lost an amateur bout as yet, shapes up as one of the most promising gladiators since the days of George Perrotta, Kid Cangey, Eddie Weygant and a few other ex-greats. Still a boy with a peach fuss on his face, Baxter is imbued with all the traits needed to hop the fistic bandwagon . . .

A couple of readers, Yankee rooters of the highest degree, resent the mud slinging on our part. One, a femme, says, How dare you make fun at the greatest team in baseball? You're always picking on them. In fact, I remember last world series you picked the Reds. Another says, Lay low on those Yanks. You'll be a big fool when they pull out into high gear. They'll come don't worry. Another threatens to quit reading our stuff if we don't "quit poking fun at a team which has done more for baseball than any other team". Our answer: It's good to know we have a couple of readers . . .

Despite the fact that the Yanks are "submarining", the New Yorkers are still 6-5 to cop their fifth straigth banner. Wonder how long the book makers will stick with the Yanks? The Phillies, having defeated Paul Derringer for the first time since early 1937, are out to bust another mark. The Phils have droped 17 consecutive games in Sportsman's park. They last won a game in St. Louis on August 30, 1938. There's a report circulating that St. Louis and Philadelphia fans are flocking to their first and true love—the Browns and Phillies!

Ellwood Ruled Today By Women

Formation Of Federation, Council Meeting Important Afternoon Features

ELLWOOD GITY, May 22.—Accepting their elected offices seriously, leading members of the Ellwood Women's club took over the city reins today in inauguration of the first annual Ladies Day.

Mrs. Clara Anderson, chief of police, and her special officers, Miss Catherine Morrision, Mrs. Lottie Fye, Mrs. Hazel Dougherty and Mrs. Lester Shirk answered police calls and were making a determined effort to eliminate double parking in the business section.

Mrs. Lola Wolfe, wife of real fire chief, Harry V. Wolfe, and her aides were having a merry time riding the fire trucks about town looking for fire hazards. Lorena Thompson accompanied health officer, Lew Young, on his daily checkup of stores and restaurants. Others inspected the schools and industries.

Activities began at 9 o'clock this morning when the officers were sworn by Attorney Joseph W. Humphrey. The Council immediately went into a caucus session to plan their projects to be presented at the formal session this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The high school band under the direction of Paul Winter gave an hour's concert on the steps of the city building after which there was a mass inspection of the club project windows. The windows have been decorated with much care, foresight and originality and are attracting widespread attention.

At 2 o'clock, there was a meeting to form a Federation of clubs. Tonight's program includes an address by Judge Sara M. Soffel, of the Allegheny county courts, at the high school auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock. The Shelby chorus will sing as will Mrs. Joseph Barson while a plaque to the outstanding woman will be presented to Mrs. Catherine M. Charles.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Maybe you are getting a little tired of hearing all this talk about summer and the leaves and so on but after that winter we are going to talk and talk about good old mother nature and what she can do with a few green leaves. Those who are fortunate enough to have a little time would be wise to spend that time going around the country. There are many beautiful spots and when the sun is shining and the winds are blowing warm . . . it makes you feel thankful that we are living in the United States where things are peaceful and calm. We hope that we never have to disturb that peace and that we all can live a long happy life.

In just a few weeks school will be out . . . that means thousands of children will be without anything definite to do. The new playgrounds will take care of some . . . some will go off to a summer camp . . . but what we are getting at is that some of the tennis courts around town need fixing up . . . that is public courts, and if you want to enjoy tennis this summer then why not get out and help getting the courts in shape . . . a call has been put out for help at the Rose Bowl playground at 5 p. m. Thursday . . . Why not do your part?

North Mercer street hill . . . where clay was put into the holes to help make the street smooth . . . was in our opinion a waste of time. The clay has been worked out by the wheels of autos climbing the hill and now the holes are worse than ever. Wish someone would get a good idea on how this hill could be fixed so that the pavement would not work loose . . . some of you chaps, how about some ideas.

* * *

We have some mighty fine people in this community . . . but on the other hand we have some people who would like to appear as mighty fine people but lack the something or other that makes them mighty fine people . . . these people are the ones who go around making themselves look big but they forget to pay their bills for such affairs . . . especially food and drink bills . . . these type of people fortunately don't last very long but while they do last they cause quite a fuss . . . oh, well it takes all kinds to make a world.

You don't realize just how soft your muscles are until you get into some heavy work around the house . . . oh, my back.

Stock Market Meets Support

Aviation Shares Show Gains Running To More Than Point In Some Issues

By LESLIE GOULD,
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 22.—The stock market met some support today but the main body of issues drifted irregularly lower.

Aviation shares showed gains running to more than a point in most of the active issues. These included Douglas, United Aircraft, Lockheed and Gleen L. Martin.

American telephone dropped more than 2 points, Monsanto Chemical 5, Du Pont over 4 and Dow Chemical better than 3 before support was met. Allied Chemical, though jumped 3½ points on its initial sale.

U. S. Steel showed support, but Bethlehem was under pressure, losing 2 points at one time.

Chrysler ran up almost 3 points, while General Motors backed and filled around last night's closing level. Coppers were quiet and mixed.

Mail orders, utilities and electrical equipments held within narrow limits. Rails, oils and rubbers generally were a shade lower.

Y. W. C. A. Meeting Election Results

Board Of Directors, 1941 Nominating Committee Elected; Program Presented

Mrs. J. W. Balentine, Mrs. O. P. Brown, Mrs. Paul Butz, Mrs. William J. Caldwell, Mrs. Walter W. Duff, Mrs. A. B. Foster, Mrs. Roy Long and Mrs. Glenn Throop were elected to serve for three years on the Board of Directors at the Y. W. C. A. 32 nd annual meeting in the "Y" Tuesday evening.

About 60 attended the meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. Roy Long, president of the board.

Those elected for the 1941 nominating committee, on the 159 ballots turned in, were: (from Board of Directors), Mrs. Charles T. Metzler, Miss Alice Sterling, (from general membership), Mrs. John A. Byers, Mrs. Earl Douglas, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser.

Tellers were Miss Alisan Leslie, chairman, Mrs. A. C. Dietterle, Mrs. Harry McCurdy, Marian Book, Mrs. Amy McClanahan, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, Mrs. Katherine Engs, Lillian Ekblom, Lois Brenneman and Lena Padula.

An offering for war work of the World Y. W. C. A. was taken during the evening and a most interesting program was presented, including the "Askit Basket" and a short play, "The Y. W. C. A. Believes." At the close, refreshments were served.

During the meeting, the treasurer's report was given when it was announced that all bills are paid at the present time, due to the membership dues, amounting to nearly $1,400. Also, that the finance committee borrowed $800 to take care of the stoker and heater for which there was no budget allowance.

Mrs. C. R. Balph, chairman of the house committee, announced the painting of the parlor and the gift of new light fixtures from the Penn Power company. There will be a dessert-bridge at the home of Mrs. C. H. Young, Wallace avenue, next Tuesday evening for the benefit of further parlor improvements.

Mrs. Balph also announced a rummage sale for next fall and asked the clubs and members to work toward improvements for the auditorium, so that it may be used as a recreation hall. Redecorating will cost about $600. The auditorium has not been improved since the building was taken over from the Y. M. C. A. 30 years ago.

In Mrs. Long's report, she spoke of the fact that more members were needed for participating in "Y" affairs, stating that 358 members were on committees last year. She spoke, too, of the need for garden flowers during the summer and asked for volunteers, of which there were many, to furnish flowers for a week at a time.

Miss Floy Owens, chairman of the business girls' department, announced that the business girls are sponsoring the movie "Edison, The Man", after which Mrs. J. Glenn Berry, chairman of the camp committee, told of the camp periods, to begin with the business girls' weekend June 15-16 and the Senior high Girl Reserve period, June 17-21. Reservations for both periods should be turned in at once, according to announcement by Miss Marguerite White, general secretary of the "Y".

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.
